A YOUNG BOY

Who Wanted to Get Away From His Father and to His Mother's Knee.

It is seldom in these hard times you will find a young boy 11 years old bating the world and its rough ways in general, but a case of this kind came up before Mayor Cox last evening, which was a most sympathetic one.

It was a little young urchin, 11 years of age, who gave the name Victor Lynch, and who claimed Ashland as his home. His story was a most interesting one as told to a LEDGER reporter and will certainly bear a repetition.

Several weeks ago, in company with his father, he left his home in Ashland to go to Cincinnati where his father secured work. The boy endeavored also to find a place, but even in a city like Cincinnati and with such a bright boy as he was, there was no difficulty in finding him a home to let.

George Pepper was charged with malicious destruction of property.

George delivered up a rock through which a public gas lamp the night before. He gave as an excuse that he was out of employment and wanted to get in jail. Judge Wadsworth gave him a fine of $10 and costs.

INTERESTING LIQUOR CASE.

Cincinnati Brewery Agent Gains a Point at Danville.

William Vowels, who is the Lexington agent for one of the Cincinnati breweries and who is under indictment at Danville in twenty counts, for violating the local whisky laws, came out victorious in his first case, which resulted in his acquittal.

This, however, is not an indication of what may occur in the other nineteen instances, the testimony will be different.

The point to be decided may be used as a precedent in future litigation.

Vowels shipped the beer to Danville agents, and some of it came marked "Collect on Delivery."

It was these cases that got him into trouble, because when the money was tendered and accepted within the limits of Danville it was claimed that the transaction came within the province of the law.

The remaining cases will come up during the present term of court.

The little fellow, once more happy with the thought of soon being again in the arms of his loving mother, left on his accommodation last evening and is now doubt, long ere this highly coaxed under his own parental roof.

It has been intimated that the bill will meet with opposition in the Senate and that the opposition will be offered by the express companies or by those who are "fed up" with the road.

They will be thoroughly repaired, and

Collectors Out Off.

Monday was the last day for the collectors on the Lexington Division of the C. & O. Road, and Wednesday morning all of the conductors took the pouches of tickets and coins. The move has been under contemplation for quite a while back by the railroad company, and several times it had been rumored that they were to be removed. As the main line is already supplied with men in this capacity the chances are that with possibly one exception the removals will be permanent. About half a dozen men were cut off.

A Friend of Colonel Bradley Says He Will Make the Race for Governor If the Party Calls Him.

The Kentucky Leader, published at Lexington, contains the following very interesting article on the coming state campaign:

Politicians are beginning to discuss the state campaign of 1895, which they say every reason to believe will be one of the most eventful in the history of Kentucky. The field is general throughout the state, with popular leaders and an aggressive campaign. The Republicans will awaken the political echoes in the old commonwealth and give the Democrats the liveliest chase they have had since the war. There are not a few hopeful Republicans who believe that new issues and industrial conditions, aided by a secret ballot, may result in the overthrow of Democracy.

On the Democratic side the most pronounced gubernatorial candidate is probably General Watt Hardin, although there seems to be no doubt that Casius M. Clay, Jr., will be in the field to contend for the honors of party leadership. Judge Morris of Lexington and Judge Pryor of New Castle are also regarded as possible candidates whose entry would add decided interest and uncertainty to the ante convention campaign.

On the Republican side Colonel W. A. Bradley is naturally the most conspicuous gubernatorial candidate, owing to his pre-eminent party rank, his splendid showing in the last campaign, but the names of other distinguished Republicans are more or less discussed by partial friends in this connection, among them being Judge George Denby, Jr., Weden O'Neal, St. John Boyle, D. J. Barchett, John W. Lewis, John D. White, A. E. Wilson, John W. Yerkes and A. R. Burnam.

There has been considerable inquiry as to the attitude of Colonel Bradley in connection with the next campaign for Governor, the correspondent of a Louisville paper having intimated a month or two ago that he would not be a candidate for the nomination in 1895. As this report has not been affirmed or denied, The Leader to-day took the trouble to ask a well informed Republican what he knew about Colonel Bradley's intentions or desires.

"Colonel Bradley and I are good friends," was the way he started off, "and I believe I understand his position pretty well, although I have had no formal discussion of the situation with him and am not authorized to speak for him. Now comes Robert.

A day or so since Duke Watson got a letter from an attorney at Mexico, Mo., stating that Robert Murphy was there and demanding a share of his brother's property.

Mr. Watson at once turned the letter over to ex Commissioner Cole, who has ever since been pondering the matter over.

As there is no limitation in such cases, Mr. Murphy cannot be kept out of the property, but as the distribution was made by order of Court, it now remains to be determined how he is to get it.

LET IT GO QUICK.

The Pesky Postal Note to be Wiped Out of Existence.

The belief is more or less popular that in buying what are known as Postoffice parlor postal notes the purchaser is insured against loss by the Government that sells them. This is erroneous.

Anybody can buy a postal note and anybody into whose hands the postal note falls can get it cashed, and if paid to the wrong person neither the right person nor the sender can recover. The Government does not pretend to be responsible for the safe delivery of the value of the note, and still less for the value of postage. It issued these notes simply as a matter of convenience to those who have fractional parts of dollars to send through the mail. If a person wants to send one or any number of dollars which can be represented by one bill it is just as safe to send the money as to send a postal note. Because of this lack of responsibility on the part of the Government the postal note has never been popular among the class that understands the situation.

The proposition is pending to abolish the postal note and reduce considerably the cost of a postal Money Order.

A bill to end passed the House of Representatives before the holiday adjournment and the probability is that it will pass the Senate. It passed the House on the ground that it furnished security to the sender and because it reduced the price of a postal Money Order from $9.50, or less, to three cents, the price that has been charged for postal notes. On large Money Orders the rates are to be correspondingly reduced so as to be on an equal footing with those charged by express companies. For example, an order for $90 to $40 will cost fifteen cents, from $90 to $100 thirty cents. The present prices are respectively twenty and forty-five cents, a difference which to those people having occasion to frequently use the Postoffice Department for transmitting money will amount to a considerable sum in the course of a year.

It has been intimated that the bill will meet with opposition in the Senate and that the opposition will be offered by the express companies or by those who are "fed up" with the road.

They will be thoroughly repaired, and the dance of the Mayville Junior Assembly will take place this evening at the St. Charles Hotel and promises to be a grand affair.

Several guests from a distance are expected.

The St. Charles will furnish a most magnificent supper, and in fact nothing will be left undone to make the affair the society event of the season.

Music will be furnished by Stewart's Orchestra.

Engines Going East.

The past two or three days the C. & O. freights have been carrying an unusual number of freight locomotives Eastward, and several were by yesterday. They are shorn of all the unnecessary running gear, such as side bars, air brakes, and go without brakes as ordinary can.

The road initials are erased, leaving nothing but the engine number, but it is understood they are from the C. & O. Railroad to the shops of the Richmond Locomotive Works, where they will be thoroughly repaired, and then be put back into service.

PUBLIC LEDGER CO.

THOMAS A. DAVIS.

Maysville, Ky., Jan. 1st, 1862.

A LARGE majority of the First Congress of the United States were farmers. They saw the necessity of encouraging and protecting manufacturers in order that they might be free from service and dangerous dependence upon foreign Nations, for the arms, the implements of farming and other machines needed for their own safety, production and independence. They also saw the necessity for providing a market for crops they had raised, which could best be done by building up the home factories and increasing their home industries. The result was that a Protective Tariff was passed and signed by GEORGE WASHINGTON, July 14, 1789. Subsequently agriculture became more extensive and prosperous, commerce increasing with wonderful rapidity. Old industries were renewed, and many new ones were established; all branches of domestic trade were prosperous, and our revenue soon became sufficient to pay the expenses of Congress, which it is not now with the fear of Free-trade.

FOUR HANDED.

A Tragedy in Mercer County, W. Va., Terrible in Detail.

Three Killed Outright and the Survivor Badly Wounded.

Officers, in Attempting to Arrest the Men Brothers Bred a Terrible Riot—The Two Brothers shot Down at the Mouth of the Gun.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Jan. 19.—A tragedy took place in Mercer county Tuesday night, which has been described as to seem almost beyond belief. Ever since the trial and execution of the notorious Doc Taylor in Virginia, six months ago, a price has been upon the heads of two brothers named Mullens, who were implicated by Taylor in his murder. A reward of $1,000 was offered for the arrest of the Mullens, and various officers have been on their trail for some time, and they were finally located on the line of the Norfolk and Western railroad.

Boydton, the Norfolk and Western detective, went to the home on Tuesday night to arrest them, and on arriving at the hut a sight met his gaze which startled even the detective's nerves. The two Mullens boys lay dead on the floor, one shot through the heart and the other through the head, and between them was the body of the sheriff of Mercer county, with a bullet through his head, and not far off, and still writhing in agony, was Deputy Sheriff Hall, one of the boys having struck him on the head, while the other had struck a portion of his jaw. The sheriff had planned the capture of the outlaws and made a rush as the officers came in and the sheriff fell dead, while Hall fell senseless. The Mullens supposed both that the sheriff had been recovered and shot out of his bullet hole, and was shot in the jaw just as he pulled trigger on the other. Hall will probably recover.

Physician Hamps Himself.

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 19.—M. Gatewood, a physician, committed suicide by hanging himself from the chandelier at the Hotel Hamilton yesterday night. He had been ill since January 11, and registered from Keeler, Noble county, Ohio. He was suffering from a grippe, and had been getting medicine at a neighboring drug store. No money was found among his effects. A photograph of a girl, with a poetical farewell on the back, evidently written just before he took his life, was left in his pocket.

Assassinated Genius.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 19.—A sample of "pure cream of tar" from Berlin & Co., of Toledo, analyzed by the state food commissioner, turns out to be pure ammonia slime, with no trace of cream of tar. A sample of "pure cream of tar" from the same manufacturer, and a sample of "pure cream of tar" from another manufacturer, were found to consist of ghee, casein, sugar, starch paste and fat, artificially colored and flavored.

THE TARIFF BILL

First, Then the Hawaiian Middle—Almost Certain That Minister Stevens' Will Be Sustained.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The discussion of the tariff bill under the five-minute rule will continue in the house until and including Saturday, January 27, night sessions being held. When the bill is reported to the house Monday, the speaker, Mr. Reed will speak for hours, followed by Speaker Crisp for the same period.

What will be done when the tariff bill is out of the house, is a question already engaging the attention of the managers. A member of the committee on rules, however, believes the first thing the house would take up would be the Hawaiian question.

Representative Raynor, of Maryland, one of the democratic members of the foreign affairs committee, and who has given much thought to the Hawaiian complication, said Thursday, that the bill will be taken up as soon as the tariff debate is closed. The whole subject has been submitted to Congress by the president and it is absolutely necessary to consider it. Aside from the questions relating to the bill of Mr. Stearns and the broader question of amending the practical question which we have to deal with is as to our future course in connection with the provisional government, or whatever other government may succeed it.

Two well known men of the army, Mr. Raynor and other democratic members of the committee will take up that a great wrong was committed in the overthrow of the monarchy; that Mr. Stevens was one of the moving spirits in the conspiracy, and that he was guilty of violating his oath as a minister and all the usage of international law in helping the movement to overthrow the government to which he was accredited.

The further ground will be taken that the restoration of the queen is utterly impracticable; that even admitting the provisional government was enough, it is easier to do through the efforts of the United States minister, that government must be recognized as de facto, and that congress will treat with it until it may be superseded by such other form of government as may be determined upon by the wishes and suffrages of the people.

AT BUCKET SHOPS

The New Anti-Optic Bill Will Be Alimed.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The so-called anti-optic bill, introduced by Mr. Hatch of the committee on agriculture, will be voted on at this session, will differ radically from the measure that was talked to death in the senate in the Fifty-second congress, and was so bitterly opposed by all boards of trade in the country. The change has been in communication with the late senatorial committee, by whom the law will be enforced if it becomes a law, and with others expert statisticians in the government service, in regard to its provisions, and the result will be, it is understood, a bill that will not be proposed to the senate, and that congress will pass a straight revenue measure that will stamp a telling blow at the bucket-shop fraternity and wild-cat speculation in the commodities of life.

Ross, sergeant of the mounted police.

It is said that the Australian steamer Warriorn bore to the Honolulu royalists, when it sailed Wednesday night, reports of the progress of the recruiting officer and an appeal for further instructions.

HELD UP.

Passenger Train Robbed Near St. Joseph, Mo.

Five Minutes All the Bandits Needed to Loot the Train,

Save All the Passengers Into Hysterics, Put Their Rich Hooty Into a Wagon, Give a Parting Shot, and Then Skip Out—It Was a Very neat Job.

St. JOSEPH, Mo., Jan. 19.—Train No. 8, the through express on the Kansas City, St. Joseph and Council Bluffs railway, was held up Thursday morning at 12:30 at Roy's Landing, one mile north of this city, in the same place that the Karpis gang met their Waterloo last September.

Just as the train approached the landing, a man approached the engine and signaled the train to stop. The engineer obeyed the signal and brought his train to a standstill. The train stopped just in time, for had it run a few yards further, it would have run over a number of ties piled upon the track.

As soon as Engineer Edward Davis brought his train to a standstill, the bandits, who had been concealed over the engine and the engine's tender, made the engineer and his fireman, F. Simonsen, step down from the cab. In the meantime three of the bandits commenced firing to intimidate the passengers, who huddled close to the seats and huffed the fire of the train.

Two of the bandits entered into the engine car and took loaded revolvers, made Expressman C. E. Baxter open the safe and hand over the express package contained in it. Men then backed out of the car and with a parting volley took their leave. The train was then started again, but the bandits had transacted their business, they sprang into the wagon and drove off into the darkness.

Just as soon as the train came to a standstill, and the bandits had disappeared, the passengers realized that gay bandits, who are making things interesting for the Burlington people, were at work. The train was well-dilled, and, at the first shot, everybody began squeezing himself into as small a space as possible.

One named Briggs, from St. Louis, had crowded down under a seat, pinching his satitch and overcoat over his head for protection. His companion, who sat in the same seat with him tried to get part of the satitch over his head, and Briggs yelled out: "Hold on there! I haven't enough for my luggage."

A number of amusing scenes occurred which were gone over with a relish after the train had steamed back into the city.

The front passenger coach had a number of shots pass through it in close proximity to the heads of several of the passengers.

Benjamin F. Hill, of the Sedalia Gazette, was a passenger on the train. He says: "When the train was signaled and began to slow up I recognized the locomotive and remembered that this was the engine used in the shooting at the Burlington people, were at work. The train was well-dilled, and, at the first shot, everybody began squeezing himself into as small a space as possible.

Several physicians, under sentence from five to ten years in Pratt mines, with heavy charges of dynamite blew down two gates that closed a shaft, and in doing so killed the guard by throwing a stick of destructive stuff, which exploded at his feet.

The leader of the gang is Jim Merritt, the most notorious character in the state. As yet none of the men have been captured, but dogs have been put on the trail.

Prohibition Measures in Iowa.

DR. M. J. MULLEN, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, gave immediate attention to the anti-prohibition measures which are now before the legislature. Republicans, of course, believe that prohibition has been a good thing for the state, but as well as a wise and popular measure, need a change. Democrats are for high license, and they do not think that there are many republicans who will vote with them on the question, making the assembly very nearly evenly divided. Some measures introduced are radical enough, but it is the opinion of the most intelligent that there will be many little changes.

Federal Minister Injured.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Senor Thomaz de Souza Rosa, the envoy extraordinary to Southeastern Philadelphia there are 5,000 persons in sweat shops in art too full for any person to breathe. In some, women work so late at night that they are uncontrollable and ran away. The carriage was overturned and Minister Rosa was thrown violently to the ground. He was unable to arise.

Decision Came Just in Time.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 19.—Mrs. Chas. Wear, a well-known lady of this city, attempted suicide Thursday morning from the window of her room at Northwest 10th street. She was represented.

The report of the executive committee was encouraging.

Fifty Soldiers Killed.

Buenos Ayres, Jan. 19.—Advices from Rio Janeiro say that the anarchist gang, led by certain revolutionaries, who are members of the secretaries of Northwest 10th street, killed fifty of the government forces on Friday night.

Twenty-four men were killed, and twenty-four were wounded.

It is bad enough to make a mistake in connection with the advanced sciences of our land, such as your humble servant was rightly accused of by an anonymous in a letter to the editor of the "Daily News" when comes to making a mistake in the simplest branch of our studies, and the one we should complete before we have arrived at the point where we are prepared to take up anatomy, it is peculiarly unfortunate.

Professor W. T. Pollett and family, who moved away from this place about one year ago, returned to their old home last Tuesday. They are very well received among us again, but are sorry to say that Miss Georgia, one of the charming members of the family, is and has been in very bad state of health almost ever since she took up her residence in this place. The family have our hearty well come and Miss Georgia our heartfelt sympathy.

There was war in town again Wednesday evening between the Tories and the Roundheads. Mr. H. W. Davis made out to sue Miss May Stubblefield the teacher. This was resisted, and William Stubblefield and Scott Fletcher got into a tussle. After the meeting, the two were separated, and Mr. Stubblefield either struck or made an attempt to strike Fletcher. The latter responded as if to draw a knife when Mr. Stubblefield struck him in the back, hitting Mr. Fletcher with a rock and cutting him severely. This ended hostilities and Mr. Fletcher got in his buggy and drove off.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 6th, 1893.—The Standard Lecture Co., New York, Tenn.—It gives me pleasure to announce to you of your Antelope, who is 11 years old, and is a good servant. Albert, who is 12 years old, was very sick with pneumonia, complicated with pleurisy, and died on Jan. 1st. His physician gave him every attention, and I am sorry to say that he died, and the only thing that could be done to make him comfortable until the end, was to let him sleep in a chair. I am sorry to say, as it seemed to be performing all the time he was in bed, he was given to doze away three hours at a time, and to dream away the rest of the time. He would dream away from the first dose, and a few hours later he would dream away again. In three days he was sitting up in a chair, and was back at work as usual, and in a few days he was walking around the room, and I never saw the old man's life more active than he was.
